and

Timothy P. Terrell

(Professor, Emory School of Law, Atlanta, GA)

Practising Law Institute presents the new Third Edition of the indispensable guide to making your writing one of the most potent weapons in your arsenal of legal skills. With a few clear principles and detailed examples, Thinking Like a Writer shows you how to give your writing a compelling credibility, a powerful emotional appeal and a convincing logic. This innovative guide also strengthens your writing skills by helping you become a better editor, with expert advice on how to diagnose and treat the full range of writing maladies.

The new Third Edition of Thinking Like a Writer refines and improves the Second Edition based on the authors' continuing work with legal writers and on comments from the many lawyers who now rely on the book. Its approach, however, remains the same, and remains unique among books about legal writing: it gives you a systematic framework of principles for transforming complicated topics into clear prose at every level of a document, from its overall organization down to its paragraphs and sentences.
